Acoustic Ladyland:

We are proud to bring the highly acclaimed and incomparable Acoustic Ladyland to Leeds in support of their third full length album "Skinny grin". Causing journalists over the land to create wild comparisons and expletive attempts to describe what producer Paul Epworth has called "the most exciting piece of music I've worked on in the last three years". For a man whose list of credits include Babyshambles, The Futureheads, Bloc Party and The Rapture an accolade such as this demonstrates the unique position that Acoustic Ladyland occupy in the fertile, British musical landscape. At once powerful and tender, knowingly shambolic and unsentimentally touching; Wareham's quartet straddle the avant garde and pop worlds seducing both and paying scant regard for the expectations and conventions of either. "At their best Acoustic Ladyland sound like no other band on the planet" (the Guardian) is closest thing to an accurate description of a band whose live performances have dropped even the most cynical jaws in the land. A quartet that manages to sound like a fleet of helicopter gunships one second and in the next perform controlled and tender harmonic inventions makes for a breathtaking evening, begging the audience to keep up...if they can.
