Artist Bio

Vicky Gao — A Film Music composer at Leeds Conservatoire who believes music is a powerful form of storytelling. Inspired by orchestral and acoustic instrumentation. My work focuses on capturing subtle emotional details and transforming them into expressive cinematic narratives.

My creative approach is rooted in the belief that music should always come from genuine emotion and carries real stories. Getting inspiration from everyday life, personal experiences, and the perspectives and relationships between people, I compose music that aims to resonate beyond the screen and connect deeply with audiences.

With a strong interest in orchestral composition and narrative-driven scoring, my music combines emotional sensitivity with detailed textures, creating immersive and authentic sonic experiences for film and visuals.

Interests & Ambitions

My work is currently centred around orchestral and cinematic composition. However, I'm also interested in exploring a wide range of musical styles, including jazz and musical theatre. Open to experimentation and new creative approaches, continuously seeks opportunities to expand my musical styles and challenge myself. I'm particularly fascinated by music from different cultural backgrounds and interested in blending Eastern and Western musical elements to create distinctive and emotionally engaging sonic experiences.

I hope that my music can exist as a story in itself that resonates beyond language and national boundaries. By combining different cultural influences, blending and transforming musical traditions to create new and emotionally relatable experiences for diverse audiences, I aim to create music that connects people on a deeper emotional level.
